

Accountability Questions on Parenting

Small groups should not only be places where we feel comfortable sharing about our spiritual disciplines, sin issues, and marriages, but also places where we can discuss parenting and what God's Word has to say to us about it.

Here are some optional accountability questions related to parenting that leaders can use from time to time in their small group. You are not expected to ask each one of these questions every week. But perhaps you might ask one or two of these questions once and a while during your accountability time and then follow up as necessary. This will help normalize parenting related discussions and sharing in small group.

Optional Accountability Questions Related to Parenting

- Have you given appropriate time to your family this week?
- How have you pointed your family to Christ this week?
- What did you do this week to disciple your children? See Ephesians 6:4.
- Questions about family worship: Did you pray with your family this week? Did you read God's Word with your family this week? Did you sing songs of worship with your family this week? Did you bring your family to church this week?
- Did you provoke your children to anger this week? See Colossians 6:21.
- Have you been biblical and consistent in the discipline of your children this week?
